ACADEMIC PROGRAMS

Among the many reasons you can count on Richmond to provide you with a top-tier education: classes are small, resources are plentiful, and our faculty values mentorship and rewards curiosity. Your studies will come to life through funded research, internships, industry connections, and innovative cross-disciplinary seminars. Plus, some of the world's smartest thinkers come to speak right here on campus.

LINA TORI JAN '20. Shaped by her experiences growing up as a Hazara minority in war-torn Afghanistan, Tori Jan founded Chai wa Dastan (Tea and Tale) — a social initiative committed to sharing the stories and lessons of empowerment, resilience, and leadership of Afghani refugees and immigrants. She currently works as a Policy Officer and serves on the board of an international NGO that supports refugees in more than 30 countries.

“These women are often overlooked by society. I wanted to provide a platform for them to share their stories and culture with a wide audience.”

STUDENT LIFE

Between our friendly community, abundant student activities, and wellness resources, there are many ways to acclimate to life at Richmond as soon as you arrive. Just 15 minutes off campus, Virginia's capital city also provides many opportunities for you to pursue internships, cultural immersion, and outdoor adventure. richmond.edu/student-experience

HOUSING AND DINING

Ninety percent of Richmond undergraduates live on campus all four years, enjoying life in a warm and supportive residential community. For students unable to travel home during academic-year breaks, the University provides the opportunity to stay in residence halls at no additional cost. And Richmond's acclaimed Dining Services, with options ranging from all-you-can-eat buffets to international cuisine served in the Passport Café, provides healthy meals prepared through sustainable dining practices.

CAMPUS RESOURCES

With students from more than 70 countries, Richmond is committed to the success of our international students: The Host Family Program ensures you have an anchor in your new community. Interest-based organizations on campus help expand your personal student network. Dedicated writing coaches and a comprehensive student health center help support academic and personal success. And the annual International Education Week (IEW) celebration — part of a national effort to highlight the importance of global engagement, dialogue, and cultural exchange — creates deeper campus connections to the world's cultures.

KEY TO PROGRAMS

Choose among a staggering number of majors, minors, and concentrations across our three undergraduate schools.

MAJOR

A major is the primary focus of your chosen course of study. All students are required to have at least one.

MINOR

A minor is an academic field of study secondary to your major. Minors are optional for students but can be added to your course of study if you have varying interests you'd like to pursue. Think of a minor as a "mini-major." Fewer units are required to complete a minor.

CONCENTRATION

A concentration is a specific focus or subject within a major. Concentrations always pair with a related major subject (e.g. Biology with a concentration in Neuroscience), whereas minors can match with any major.

ADVISING

Advising programs provide guidance, support, and academic preparation to students interested in pursuing a certain field or area of post-graduate study after Richmond.
