KEY TO PROGRAMS

Choose among a staggering number of majors, minors, and concentrations across our three undergraduate schools.

■ Major

A major is the primary focus of your chosen course of study. All students are required to have at least one.

▲ Minor

A minor is an academic field of study secondary to your major. Minors are optional for students but can be added to your course of study if you have varying interests you'd like to pursue. Think of a minor as a "mini-major." Fewer units are required to complete a minor.

★ Concentration

A concentration is a specific focus or subject within a major. Concentrations always pair with a related major subject (e.g. Biology with a concentration in Neuroscience), whereas minors can match with any major.

● Advising

Advising programs provide guidance, support, and academic preparation to students interested in pursuing a certain field or area of post-graduate study after Richmond.
