Self-Guided Walking Tour

Welcome to Richmond!

Start at the Queally Center for Admission and Career Services (★) and follow the dotted line on the map to complete the tour loop.

Queally Center

The Queally Center (142) is home to the Offices of Admission, Financial Aid, Career Services and Employer Development, Bursar, and Registrar. Spiders start and end their journey here with resources to help them along the way!

Upon exiting the front entrance, turn left on UR Drive and cross over Westhampton Way. On your left will be the main brick walkway leading up the hill between Cannon Memorial Chapel and Gottwald Center for the Sciences.

University Forum

The University Forum is a central gathering place for students on campus. To your right is Cannon Memorial Chapel (134) and the Wilton Center (126) for Campus Ministries. Five global faith traditions are supported at UR through 14 campus ministries.

On your left is Gottwald Center for the Sciences (138), home to the departments of Chemistry, Biology, Biochemistry and Molecular Biology, and Physics. Gottwald features state-of-the-art lab equipment and 22 teaching laboratories. Richmond guarantees up to $4,000 for an unpaid summer research or internship experience for all traditional undergraduates. Last year Richmond funded more than 550 summer fellowships totaling over $2 million.

Passing Cannon Memorial Chapel on your right, continue right on the upper level walkway to enter Tyler Haynes Commons.

Tyler Haynes Commons

Tyler Haynes Commons (270) is the heart of campus. Here you will find the Career Services Advising Suite, the Bonner Center for Civic Engagement, the Office of Multicultural Affairs, the Center for Student Involvement, the Office of Common Ground, the Office of Scholars and Fellowships, Spider Shop, and more, all nestled in this building that spans the lake.

Once you exit the other end of the Commons, proceed straight up the hill on the main path and bear left after Boatwright Memorial Library, entering Stern Quadrangle.

Stern Quadrangle

Stern Quadrangle is the main academic quad on campus. Ryland Hall (106), on your right, is the oldest academic building on campus and home to the departments of English, History, Classics, and Philosophy. Weinstein Hall (231), on your left, is home to the social sciences and is the first LEED-certified building on campus. At the farthest end of Stern Quadrangle, on your left, is the Jepson School of Leadership Studies (221), the first school of leadership studies in the nation.

Walk through Stern Quadrangle, passing Ryland Hall on your right and stop at Ryland Circle. Up the hill and on your right is the Robins School of Business and on your left is the University of Richmond School of Law.

Robins School of Business

Robins School of Business (102), a highly ranked business program with a foundation in liberal arts, stands on the small hill to your right. It is home to our Accounting, Business Administration, and Economics majors along with a variety of concentration areas such as Finance, Marketing, and International Business. The Business School also houses the Center for Innovation and Entrepreneurship that offers an interdisciplinary academic program, and other events and activities to enhance experiential learning, and is open to all students.

School of Law

The University of Richmond School of Law (203), founded in 1870, offers a J.D. and combined J.D./MBA programs and enjoys the same low student-to-faculty ratio as all other branches of the University.

From Ryland Circle turn left on the pathway between the School of Law and Jepson Hall. Bear right on Founders Walk, entering the courtyard of the Carole Weinstein International Center.

Carole Weinstein International Center

The Carole Weinstein International Center (211) is home to several academic disciplines, study abroad, the Office of International Education, faculty and classroom space, and the Passport Café.

Pass through the courtyard and cross the street, heading straight for Robins Stadium.

Robins Stadium

Robins Stadium (371) seats 8,700 and is a multisport venue serving the University's football, men's and women's lacrosse, and women's track & field programs.

To the left of Robins Stadium is the Well-Being Center and Weinstein Center for Recreation.

Well-Being Center and Weinstein Center for Recreation

The Well-Being Center (363) is the newest building on campus that conveniently houses all areas of student wellness under one roof. The Well-Being Center is home to our Health Promotions, Student Health Center, as well as our Counseling and Psychological Services.

Attached to the Well-Being Center is the Weinstein Center for Recreation (361) which features two floors of fitness machines and free weights, several multipurpose rooms for free exercise classes, squash and racquetball courts, a swimming pool, a three-court gymnasium, and sauna facilities. The University boasts 17 Division I varsity sports teams, 32 club sports teams, and numerous intramural teams.

Follow the path in front of the Well-Being Center, meandering past residence halls on the left and Pitt Field (baseball) on your right. Continue down to the lake and turn left on Lakeview Lane.

Lakeview Hall

Lakeview Hall (256) is a suite-style co-ed residence hall that houses several Sophomore Scholars in Residence living-learning communities. Students live in the same residence living-learning hall and participate together in a class, group travel, and co-curricular activities with a faculty mentor.

Follow the lake path towards Tyler Haynes Commons. On your left will be Boatwright Memorial Library.

Boatwright Memorial Library

Students take advantage of a number of resource centers in Boatwright Memorial Library (261), including the Media Resource, Technology Learning, and Academic Skills Centers. They also frequent the popular 8:15 café for coffee and baked goods and relax on the spacious lawn. The main facility of Boatwright is open 24/5, and the main entrance faces the lake.

Continue to follow the path alongside the lake. When you approach Tyler Haynes Commons, you can continue on the outdoor path by the lake and climb the stairs on your left to enter the University Forum. Or, you can enter the ground level to find an elevator at the entrance that can be taken to the second level and leads to the University Forum. From the University Forum you will continue straight on Wilton Way, stopping at Heilman Dining Center on your right.

Heilman Center

The Heilman Center (410) is the central dining hall offering all-you-care-to-eat dining. The Heilman Dining Center is open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. during the academic year. It is also home to the campus post office and a convenience store.

Continue up the hill on Wilton Way. Once you cross Westhampton Way, turn left in front of Booker Hall of Music and continue straight to the front entrance of the Modlin Center for the Arts.

Modlin Center for the Arts and Booker Hall of Music

The Modlin Center for the Arts (453) and Booker Hall of Music (455) draw international acts to campus, most of which are either free or discounted to students. Across the green are North Court (421) and South Court (431), which house classrooms, academic departments, and residence hall rooms.

From the Modlin Center for the Arts walk through the archway and down the hill on Keller Road. Turn right on Westhampton Way. Lora Robins Court will be on your right.

Lora Robins Court

Lora Robins Court (403) is one of the residence halls that house first-year students. At Richmond around 90 percent of undergraduates live on campus all four years. Laundry facilities are free to students. Access to residence halls is limited to Richmond students (and only to residents of that building after 2 a.m.).

As you exit Lora Robins Court, turn right on Westhampton Way and Queally Center will be on your right. You have completed the walking tour!
